WHO THIS IS FOR

- You already trade actively and want a real process behind it.
- You've round-tripped a winner, or sold early and watched it run.
- You want to understand how a trade is built, not copy calls.
- If you've never used a perp or managed a position, this will move too fast.

WHAT'S INCLUDED

- Six live sessions: 60 minutes of teaching, then 30 minutes of Q&A
- Recordings of every session
- A private 30-minute 1:1 wrap-up with me after the final session
- A private channel for the cohort between sessions

You're getting my full playbook: the frameworks, charts, and setups I use every day. Just don't copy it 1:1. Every trader's system is many systems combined and adjusted until it works. The job is to build what I teach into yours.

MARCUS

THE SIX SESSIONS

- I Reading the market cycle

Macro, the business cycle, the dollar, bond yields, US equities, and geopolitics, each at the depth you actually need. We combine them into one map of where the market sits today and which phase it's in. You'll learn which signals matter in each phase, how to spot a phase shift early, and how the phase decides how much risk you should be taking at all.
- II Long-term holds vs. swing trades

Most traders blur the two, and it costs them on both sides. Long-term holds are built on a high-timeframe view and reviewed every few weeks. Swing trades are built on technicals and managed actively. We cover the strategy for each: how to size them, how much leverage belongs in each, when to add or trim, and how the market phase sets the split between them. Most of the session goes to the swing side, including how to spot a swing trade quietly turning into a long-term bag.
- III Technical analysis

My technical toolkit, read top-down from the weekly to the 4H. Trend structure, momentum shifts, catching a trend change before it's obvious, and why Bitcoin's higher timeframe anchors every other chart. We work through live charts together: key levels, divergences, and telling a real breakout from a fakeout, so you leave with a repeatable process for reading any chart.
- IV Finding and executing trades

How I find names early, from the lows: relative strength against BTC, bases forming, catalysts, and on-chain positioning. Then the execution: where the stop goes, how to size from risk, and when the phase justifies a wider stop. You'll see how I build a position in tranches instead of all at once, and why I set the invalidation and plan the exit before the trade is ever on.
- V Hedging and taking profit

A good entry doesn't guarantee a good position. You'll see how a NEAR position bought at $1.80 can end up with a $3 average cost when you trim too little and buy every shallow dip, and how one flush can wipe out the gain. How I hedge with perp shorts instead of selling, how I size and lift the hedge, and how I take profit. We also cover when to hedge versus simply sell, what makes the right hedge instrument, and how to track your real cost basis so it never gets away from you.
- VI Trading psychology

The biases I see most often in 1-on-1 calls, and the habits behind them: FOMO entries, revenge trades, moving stops, and sizing up after a win. Everything I teach is shaped by how I think, so in this session you adapt it to how you think. We finish by building it all into a playbook of your own, with the routines I use to stay disciplined when a position moves fast.
